I. Preface

As a Catholic women's university founded by the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet, St. Catherine University holds its students to a high standard of ethical and moral conduct. St. Catherine University ("St. Catherine" or "University") has a proud history of providing an environment conducive to learning, living, and working. When the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet were founded, they dedicated their order to the "practice of all the spiritual and corporal works of mercy of which woman is capable, and which will most benefit the dear neighbor."

The University commits itself to maintaining a safe and welcoming environment where each individual's dignity is upheld and differences are celebrated. As a community, we reject and condemn all forms of harassment, discrimination, and disrespect. Consequently, there is a strong emphasis on the values of self-awareness and a distinct consideration for the lives and feelings of others.

To that end, St. Catherine University Values serve as the foundation of the Student Code of Conduct and Community Expectations ("Student Code of Conduct" or "Code"). The purpose of this Student Code of Conduct is to ensure a fair and impartial student conduct process.

St. Catherine University Values:

- Academic Excellence: We embrace a culture of learning that drives students, faculty and staff to discover, acquire and apply knowledge. Principles of academic excellence lie at the heart of a St. Catherine University education. Any transgression compromises the worth of a St. Catherine University degree. A high standard of academic integrity is a testament to academic and professional excellence.

- Community: We welcome all without distinction in the spirit of the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet. St. Catherine University students build and enhance their community. The University community celebrates and encourages the free exchange of ideas and opinions. St. Catherine University students show positive regard for each other, for property and for the community.
- Integrity: We demonstrate honesty and openness, and build trust with all that we do. St. Catherine University students exemplify honesty, honor and a respect for the truth in all of their dealings.
- Social Justice: We create an environment of equity, fairness and respect, and we work for systemic change so Earth and all people thrive. St. Catherine University students are just and equitable in their treatment of all members of the community and act to discourage and prevent unjust and inequitable behaviors.
- Reflection: We contemplate all life experience and examine the mystery of human purpose. St. Catherine University students are given and accept a high level of responsibility to self, to others, and to the community.

The University expects all students and faculty to uphold the highest standards of integrity and personal conduct. Both require more than following specific rules. They lead us to bring ourselves fully to our tasks, recognize and respect others, listen and contribute.

The University is a community that depends on the integrity of its members in respectful association with each other. The specific standards of student behavior listed here reflect established traditions of community, integrity, and social justice recognized at our University.

Our goal in articulating these standards is not simply to achieve adherence to them, but more importantly, to encourage the growth of intellectual and moral maturity, and to foster wholeness and connection in our University community.

The St. Catherine University Student Code of Conduct is partially adopted from The NCHERM Group Model Code Project (2013), and student conduct standards outlined by the Council for the Advancement of Standards (CAS).

II. Scope & Jurisdiction

Students at St. Catherine University are provided a copy of the Student Code of Conduct annually in the form of a link on the University website. Students are responsible for reading and abiding by the provisions of the Student Code of Conduct.

1. The Student Code of Conduct and the student conduct process apply to the conduct of individual students, both undergraduate and graduate and all University-affiliated student organizations. For the purposes of student conduct, the University considers an individual to be a student when an offer of admission has been extended and thereafter as long as the student has a continuing educational interest in the University.
2. The Student Code of Conduct applies to behavior: (1) occurring in any University facility, on any University property, or off-campus; (2) occurring in connection with any University sponsored, recognized, or approved program, visit, or activity; (3) that adversely affects a substantial University interest, including pursuit of its mission or policies; or (4) that otherwise threatens the health or safety of any member of the University community.
3. A substantial University interest includes but is not limited to:

- a. Any situation where it appears that the student's conduct may present a danger or threat to the health or safety of self or others; and/or
 - b. Any situation that significantly impinges upon the rights, property or achievements of self or others, or significantly breaches the peace and/or causes social disorder; and/or
 - c. Any situation that is detrimental to the educational mission and/or interests of the University
4. The University retains oversight over a student who chooses to take a leave of absence, withdraw or have graduated for any misconduct that occurred prior to the leave, withdrawal or graduation. If sanctioned, a hold may be placed on the student's ability to re-enroll, and/or obtain official transcripts or graduate, and all sanctions must be satisfied prior to re-enrollment eligibility. In the event of serious misconduct committed while still enrolled but reported after the accused student has graduated, the University may invoke these procedures and should the former student be found responsible, the University may revoke that student's degree.
 5. The Student Code of Conduct may be applied to behavior conducted online, via email, or other electronic medium. Students should also be aware that online postings are in the public sphere and are not private. These postings can subject a student to allegations of conduct violations if evidence of policy violations is posted online. The University does not regularly search for this information but may take action if and when such information is brought to the attention of University officials.
 6. The Student Code of Conduct applies to guests of community members, whose hosts may be held accountable for the misconduct of their guests. The Code may also be applied to resident non-students, conference guests, and participants in continuing education programs by contractual agreements. Visitors to and guests of the University may seek resolution of violations of the Student Code of Conduct committed against them by members of the St. Catherine University community.
 7. There is no time limit on reporting violations of the Student Code of Conduct; however, the longer someone waits to report an offense, the harder it becomes for University officials to obtain information and witness statements, and to make determinations regarding alleged violations.
 8. St. Catherine University email is the University's primary means of communication with students. Students are responsible for all communication delivered to their University email address.

III. Violations of the Law

Alleged violations of federal, state and local laws may be investigated and addressed under the Student Code of Conduct. When a violation of the law occurs over which the University has jurisdiction, the University conduct process may move forward independent of those pending charges, regardless of whether they are dismissed, dropped, or otherwise resolved. The University reserves the right to exercise its authority of interim administrative action (see Section V: Interim Administrative Action) upon notification that a student is facing criminal investigation and/or complaint.

IV. Student Code of Conduct

St. Catherine University considers the behavior described in the following subsection as inappropriate for the University community and in opposition to the core values set forth in this document. These expectations and rules apply to all students, whether undergraduate, graduate, enrolled in online, hybrid, or in-person academic programs.

The student conduct process is not intended as a substitute for any legal action available to the student or the University. Should an act violate both University regulations and the law, the student may be subject to dual processes (those of the campus, and those of the law) to determine responsibility. Any student found to have committed or to have attempted to commit the following misconduct is subject to the sanctions outlined in Section VII: Sanctions.

Students alleged to have violated the academic integrity policy (e.g. plagiarism, cheating) should refer to the Academic Integrity Policy for information on the resolution process of academic conduct violations.

Interim administrative action may include suspension, denial of access, removal from on-campus housing, changes to academic schedule or housing assignment, no contact orders, and/or other restrictions.

VI. Overview of Conduct Procedures

This overview outlines St. Catherine University's student conduct procedures. It should be noted that not all situations are of the same severity or complexity. Thus, these procedures are flexible, and may not be exactly the same in every situation; consistency in similar situations is a priority. The campus conduct process and all applicable timelines commence with notice to an administrator of a potential violation of University policies.

Once notice is received from any source, the University may proceed with a preliminary investigation and/or may schedule an initial meeting with the responding student to explain the conduct process to the responding student and gather information.

Preliminary Inquiry

The University conducts a preliminary inquiry into the nature of the incident, complaint or notice, the evidence available, and the parties involved. The preliminary inquiry may lead to:

1. A determination that there is insufficient evidence to pursue the investigation, because the behavior alleged, even if proven, would not violate the Student Code of Conduct, (e.g. for reasons such as mistaken identity or allegations of behavior that falls outside the Code);

2. A more comprehensive investigation, when it is clear more information must be gathered;
3. A formal complaint of a violation of the Student Code of Conduct
 - a. Complaints involving incidents occurring in the residence halls or apartments will be reviewed by the Director of Residence Life, who will either resolve the matter or forward to another hearing officer
 - b. Complaints involving incidents occurring outside the residence halls, or complaints involving a substantial violation of the Code, will be reviewed by the Associate Dean of Students, who will either resolve the matter or forward to another hearing officer.
 - c. Complaints involving academic dishonesty are resolved through Academic Affairs. Please refer to the Academic Integrity Policy.

Conduct Meeting Process

Resolution of the conduct process will be conducted in accordance with the following procedures:

1. The conduct hearing officer will provide the responding student with written notification of the alleged violation(s) of the Student Code of Conduct. The written notice will identify any standards of conduct which the student has allegedly violated, and a request to meet with the conduct hearing officer within a specific period of time (typically within seven business days of the notice).
2. Incidents of student misconduct are resolved through a conduct meeting. A conduct meeting is a formal meeting between a conduct hearing officer and a responding student to resolve a reported violation of the Student Code of Conduct. Conduct meetings facilitate an open, educational dialogue between students and the conduct hearing officer.
3. The conduct meeting will be private. All parties to the conduct meeting, including witnesses and others in attendance, are expected to keep the conduct proceedings confidential.
4. During the meeting, all allegations of misconduct and evidence will be presented to the responding student by a conduct hearing officer.
5. During the meeting, the responding student will have the opportunity to respond to all allegations of misconduct and evidence presented. The responding student will have the opportunity to present information on their own behalf, including written or oral statements, and physical evidence.
6. Using the preponderance of evidence as the standard of resolution, the conduct hearing officer will determine whether the responding student violated the Student Code of Conduct. The conduct hearing officer may consult with other appropriate individuals as part of their deliberations. The conduct hearing officer may take into consideration such factors as the preferences of all parties, whether facts are in dispute, and any other relevant circumstances.
7. Once a determination has been made, the conduct hearing officer will notify the responding party in writing, and identify sanctions imposed if the responding student is found responsible, and explain the rationale for those sanctions. The conduct hearing officer will provide written notification to the responding student of the outcome of the conduct hearing. The conduct hearing officer will be responsible for monitoring the satisfactory completion of any sanctions assigned.

Student Rights & Responsibilities

1. Responding students are entitled to be accompanied by a support person in meetings related to the investigative and the student conduct process. A support person is someone who provides support, guidance, and/or advice to the responding party. A support person cannot speak on behalf of the individual, directly participate in the proceedings, or submit any written requests (including appeals) on behalf of the responding student. The support person also cannot serve as witness in the context of an investigation. A support person may be a family member, friend, faculty member, staff member, attorney, or other advisor/supporter. Should a support person not adhere to these expectations or attempt to play a direct and/or active role in any proceedings, the hearing officer or staff member, at their discretion, may excuse the support person.
2. All parties have the right to present information on their own behalf, including written or oral statements, and physical evidence.
8. Loss of Privilege. The withdrawal of a privilege or use of a service for a specific period of time. Loss of privilege may include but are not limited to on-campus residency, parking privileges, or participation in study abroad programs, student clubs organizations, or intercollegiate or intramural sports.
9. Restitution. Requires students to pay for damages to University property or the property of University community members, its guests, or others harmed by a student's actions. Also requires restitution for misappropriated or stolen University funds. Such reimbursements may be required of any student who alone, or as a member of a group, organizes or knowingly participates in the events causing the damage or loss.
10. Other Sanctions. Additional or alternate sanctions may be created and designed as deemed appropriate to the violation.
11. Post-enrollment Sanctions. Sanctions may be imposed upon a responding student who is found in violation of the Student Code of Conduct while they were a student, but who has graduated and/or withdrawn from the University before imposition of the sanction.

VII. Sanctions

The following sanctions comprise the range of official actions that may be imposed for violations of the Student Code of Conduct. One or more sanctions may be imposed. Repeated violations usually justify increasingly severe sanctions.

1. Warning. A notice to students that their conduct has been questionable and that future breaches of conduct will be treated more severely. Additional educational sanctions may be assigned.
2. Probation. A trial period during which students must behave in a manner acceptable to the University. The status of probation is assigned for a specific period of time. A conduct hearing officer may establish terms of probation which restrict the student's participation in co-curricular activities. Violation of the terms of probation or further incidents of misconduct may result in suspension from the University. The terms of probation may include requirements including but not limited to the following:
3. Completion of mandatory assessments, including but not limited to psychological or chemical dependency evaluation.
4. Suspension. An action that excludes students for a specific period of time from course registration or class attendance and residence on the campus. Use of University facilities is also revoked by this action unless otherwise agreed upon. Upon termination of the period of suspension, students shall be considered for readmission according to academic admission standards then in effect. If a student is readmitted, further incidents of misconduct may result in permanent expulsion.
5. Expulsion. The permanent restriction by the University from course registration, class attendance, and residence on the campus. Use of University facilities is also revoked by this action unless otherwise agreed to.
6. Educational Sanctions. Educational sanctions may include, but are not limited to, requirements to attend, present, and/or participate in a program related to the violation; to learn about a topic and/or aid others in learning related to the violation; to write/provide a reflection on a topic related to the violation.
7. Confiscation of Prohibited Property. Items whose presence is a violation of the Student Code of Conduct or other applicable policies will be confiscated and become the property of the University. Prohibited items may be returned to the owner at the discretion of Student Affairs, Residence Life and/or the Department of Public Safety.
- A student in this position is subject to revocation of any degree awarded, temporary or permanent withholding of degree conferment, diploma or transcript for any degree, or having a sanction imposed as a condition of re-enrollment at St. Catherine University.

VIII. Procedure for Appeal of Decisions

1. Appeals of decisions made by a conduct hearing officer may be submitted by any party to the hearing, but must be submitted within three business days following notice of the outcome decision.
2. An appeal may be submitted for the following reasons only, and can be denied if the stated reason(s) for the appeal do not meet these criteria:
 - a. The outcome decision was made contrary to existing University policy.
 - b. Information used to reach an outcome decision was incomplete and/or inaccurate. New information, not available to or known by the original conduct hearing officer, becomes available and is sufficient to alter the decision.
 - c. Circumstances beyond the control of the student kept the student from responding to the allegations in a timely manner.
 - d. There is evidence of a substantial error in conduct procedures. The original conduct meeting was not conducted within the outlined procedures to allow the responding student a reasonable opportunity to present their response to allegations of student misconduct or the decision was not based upon a preponderance of evidence standard.
 - e. Sanction(s) imposed are substantially disproportionate to the severity of the violation.
 - f. A sanction of suspension or expulsion was imposed.
3. The appeal must be presented in writing and must identify the basis for the appeal.
4. Responding students have the right to appeal the decision and/or sanctions of their conduct meeting to one appeal officer. The decision of the appeal officer is considered final.

IX. Student Records

1. Records of actions taken by conduct hearing officers or hearing appeal authorities regarding all student Student Code of Conduct violations will be kept on file in the Office of Student Affairs.

2. Student conduct records are considered part of a student's educational record and are normally maintained for at least one year after graduation. Disciplinary files for students who withdraw from the University or are suspended or expelled for disciplinary reasons will be maintained for an indefinite length of time.
3. The University reserves the right to notify parents of students, and/or a student's emergency contact, when student conduct action results in suspension, expulsion, loss of housing privileges, or when the conduct involves alcohol or other drug violations. Student conduct records may be disclosed by the University in appropriate circumstances such as in lawsuits or administrative proceedings in which they are relevant, or pursuant to subpoena or court order.
